

Abstract

Painless and Tissue-Saving Injection of Medicaments

The present invention relates to the use of colloid-osmotically effective substances in compositions containing medicaments for the painless and tissue-saving administration of medicaments by injection, and a kit comprising individual components in separated form, as well as injectable aqueous medicinal solutions.

202105101660